Minutes of the Potters Union Transcribed by Richard W. Hunter

The last issue of Trenton Potteries (Vol. 3, Issue 4) published an excerpt from a ledger book containing the minutes of early organizational meetings for what soon became the Potters Union. The ledger entries document the minutes of meetings held over two main periods when Trenton potters were involved in union organization: from August 1868 to May 1869, and from November 1874 through October 1879. POTS plans on transcribing these minutes and making them available on our web site. As a first step we are publishing excerpts of the minutes from the 1868-1869 period.

The first published excerpt covered August 1868 to January 1869. The minutes from those meetings document how the workers established membership dues and a code of rules and worked to raise funds for the union. The first grievance was also recorded during this time.

In this issue are the minutes of meetings held between January and May 12 of 1869. These minutes document several grievances and the onset of a strike that was to last into late August of that year. For background on the strike, please see Marc Jeffrey Stern's The Pottery Industry of Trenton: A Skilled Trade in Transition, 1850-1929 (Rutgers University Press, New Brunswick 1994). All of the minutes of 1868-69 were recorded by John D. McCormick, who served as Secretary to both the hollowware pressers branch union and the amalgamated union.

The minutes of 1869 are reproduced here almost in their entirety and with limited editing.

Trenton, Jan. 12, 1869.

Wm Ray, from the firm of Cook &

Co., brought a grievance before the meeting relative to handling chambers. The firm wanted him to stick "turned up" handles for 52 cts. a score doz. He was instructed, by a unanimous vote of the meeting, to handle none at that price, or less than 8 cts. a doz., or by the day. Leonard Foster was elected trustee, vice John Reed, resigned. Adj.

Trenton, Feb. 2, 1869.

The Hollow-Ware Pressers met at their rooms, the Vice President in the chair. After the reading and adoption of the minutes of the last meeting a report was received from Cook & Co's Pottery, relative to a 4's granite Ewer. The firm said that none of them would be made unless they were made down town at other potteries. The report was accepted, and the parties interested were instructed, if occasion required, to notify the Secretary, to call a general meeting.

James Connell and Wm Podmore were elected auditors. The following nominations for officers were made: For President, John Munro, James Reed. Vice President, Thomas Littleton, Wm Ray. Secretary - John D. McCormick. On motion, the nomination closed. Treasurer - Edward Dwyer, Thomas Lawton. Auditors - Leonard Foster, Jas. Connell, Wm Podmore, George Hart, Joshua Stockwell.

Trenton, Feb 9 '69.

It was reported from Cook & Co.

The report was accepted.

The following committee on reunion was elected:- Leonard Foster, Thomas Littleton, Joseph Cotton, James Reed, Wm Ray.

Michael Kearney, from Moore & Co., brought a grievance relative to round soup tureens. He was asked to make 4's 6's and 9's at 60 cts. all around. Upon comparing the size with the stands at Bloors and other places, he found that Moore & Co's stands were nearly or a full size larger.

Reed, from Millington & Co., reported that the firm finally consented to pay $1.05 for the large 9's granite ewers, and $1.25 per doz. for 6's, but that the firm hoped the Union would be satisfied with $1.00 a doz. for the 9's. reported that the firm hesitated to pay $1.25 per doz. for the 6's Ewers. The resolution of the previous meeting was adhered to.

On motion, a general meeting was called on Thursday evening 11th inst. to take action on the shapes and sizes at Thomson & Coxson's pottery. Adj.

Trenton, Mar. 11, 1869.

A special meeting assembled at the usual place, the President in the chair. A statement was made of an unusual occurrence at Moses & Co's Pottery. Mr. Munro had been making a very difficult shape of covered dishes, and asked an advance of a shilling a dozen in price. Isaac Davis, the manager, refused to give the advance, and discharged Mr. Munro without giving any previous notice, as is the custom. All the other pressers were asked to make the dishes, but they promptly refused, whereupon Mr. Davis ended by locking out the whole lot. This high-handed proceeding created profound indignation.

On motion, the Secretary was instructed to invite the Manufacturing Potters' Union to a conference at an early day, to arrange sizes, prices and shapes. The following persons were elected to represent the Union in the proposed conference: John Munro, Thomas Littleton, John D. McCormick, James Reed.

The question relative to Thompson & Coxson's pottery was laid over. The pressers at Moses were instructed begin at the old prices, but not to make the cover dishes unless the advance was given, if allowed from the present time, should the conference allow the advance. Adj.

The instructions of the previous meeting were adhered to.

It having been discovered that Isaac Davis had sent notes to a number of the potteries urging that his men should not get employment, and particularly Mr. Munro,

On motion, the latter gentleman was authorized to consult a lawyer on the subject, the expense, if any, to be borne by the Association. Adj.

quested to draw up a statement of grievances and have the same published at an early day.

Membership Meeting, Sunday, May 4

Mark your calendars for Sunday, May 4, the first ever POTS members' gathering. Because POTS is a relatively small group, we can all get to know each other and find out what others look for and collect in Trenton pottery and porcelain.

We will start the afternoon with a one-hour show and tell session. Members who wish to share a special piece or find answers to a difficult puzzle piece can present them to the group for general discussion. Archaeologists Bill Liebeknecht and Patty Madrigal will set up a display of the latest interesting archaeological finds from downtown Trenton sites.

The "show and tell" session will be followed by a generous "meet and greet" period with plenty of time to enjoy each other's company and taste some delicious tea cakes made by board members.

This event is free to members and their guests. Membership sign-up forms and back issues of our newsletter will be available. Everyone is encouraged to bring a prospective member or two.

We hope we see everyone --
